Henzel Studio

DESCRIPTION

Richard Prince is an American artist (currently lives and works in upstate New York), best known for his use of appropriated imagery. Prince uses photographs taken from consumer culture—advertising, entertainment and social media. For HENZEL STUDIO, Richard Prince created a free-form design informed by a series of collages featuring numbers. Variable material compositions of wool and silk create contrasting effects. Prince has had individual presentations at such venues as Artists Space, New York, Institute of Contemporary Arts in London, Whitney Museum of American Art, New York and MAK, Vienna. His work has appeared in the Vienna International Biennial, São Paolo Biennial, Whitney Biennial, Sydney Biennial, Venice Biennale, as well as in many group exhibitions, including Centre Georges Pompidou, Paris, Tate Modern, London and Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. His works are currently held in the collections of The Museum of Modern Art in New York, Guggenheim, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Goetz Collection in Munich and the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, among others.
