twentieth

Museum Glass Coffee Table

Christopher Kreiling

DESCRIPTION

The Museum coffee table is a sculpture as much as a table that asks one to view the idea of a coffee table differently. It is part of a series, including a bench and console. One can sit on the glass-like ottoman or bench, and trays or books can be used to create flat useable surfaces. This piece is a real conversation starter and plays with light in a minimal yet hypnotizing way. The Museum coffee table can be special ordered in a custom height and lengths up to 10 feet long. The steel base has a black acid patina.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

DIMENSIONS
42" W x 42" D x 18" H

MATERIALS
Patinated Steel, Molded Glass Tubes