

twentieth

Evox2 Bench

Thomas Newman Studio

DESCRIPTION

The name “evolution” suggests an elemental, primitive concept: a simple beginning for more complex ideas that evolve from it. The two legs of this piece are identical, held together with a simple notched joint. Their sculptural shape could be a fin or the webbed foot of some prehistoric creature. The basic “X” design is about as old as the art of furniture making and has been elaborated on and embellished for millennia. Its inherent beauty is firmly embedded in the designers’ human aesthetic hard drive.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

DIMENSIONS

twentieth

sales@twentieth.net

323.904.1200

www.twentieth.net

59" W x 14" D x 20" H

MATERIALS

Sapele wood, muslin-wrapped cushion

WOOD FINISH

Wood Tone, Cerused, Ebonized, Amber, Sapele Traite-Wood
Shown in Sapele Traite-Wood

WOOD TONE

Light, Dark, Warm

UPHOLSTERY

Muslin-wrapped cushion

COM

3 yards per stool

SPEC SHEET