twentieth

Stalactite Aether

Christopher Boots

DESCRIPTION

Natural stalactite forms meet crystalline explosions. STALACTITE exudes warm light through fracture and crevice, illuminating the beautiful imperfections of natural quartz crystals. In the AETHER edition, the gradient from density to clarity is carried further than ever before. Cast brass crystalline forms emerge at the upper reaches of the formation, marking an elemental transition where mineral dissolves into metal. Named for the primordial god of the upper air, the pure, luminous atmosphere breathed only by the gods.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

EDITION