twentieth

Prometheus Iii Astraea

Christopher Boots

DESCRIPTION

Prometheus stole fire from the Gods of Mt Olympus and gave it to humankind. More than the means for survival, Prometheus' gift represented creative potential itself. PROMETHEUS III is an explosion of blazing crystal quartz, venerating its namesake in a ring of flame.

ASTRAEA reimagines the form in lapis lazuli, the blue mineral used for adorning sacred objects for millennia. Named for the goddess of the starry sky, it carries the night within it: an ultramarine surface alive with subtle variation and shifting reflection, as though stars have settled in stone.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

EDITION